Andover Honored Her War Dead In Traditional Services

Rain-soaked men, women and children turned out Wednesday morning to honor Andover's war dead.

Despite almost constant showers, the parade and out-door services were held as scheduled, except the first service at the library. The parade by-passed that ceremony, going directly to the auditorium, where alternate plans called for all three services to be held. But Marshal Raymond Pellerin and his staff decided the rain might stop and continued the line

The Jonathan Swift house, located at the corner of Central and Brook streets, is an excellent example of a modified American colonial and was built by Jonathan Swift at a prosperous period in his life around 1795. Upon his arrival in Andover in the late 1700's, Mr. Swift first made his home in a small wooden cottage which stood directly across from the present Swift house, on what is now bank property.

Became Prominent

A tanner by trade, the enterprising gentleman established himself in business and within a short period of time had proved himself to be a forthright and successful businessman whose position in the community gradually gained such prominence that he became a local leader in civic as well as social affairs. It was during this period of prosperity that he built the large colonial house which was much more fitting to his standing in the town. His land holdings at that time were also quite extensive and much of the land from Main st. down Central st. was recorded in the Swift name.

Postoffice There

After Jonathan's death, his nephew, Dr. Nathaniel Swift, made the lovely old house his home and it was during his occupancy that the north room of the house became a United States Postoffice. Appointed under President John Quincy Adams, he remained as Andover's postmaster from 1820 until 1840.

For the first few years the doctor and his sons were the sole operators of Andover's second the doctor's death in 1840. A Postoffice which existed until greatly-loved physician, the doctor's passing at the age of 62 was sincerely mourned by the community in which he had practiced for so many years.

The Swift house remains as a successful example of the later Colonial type and displays the familiar arched windows which can clearly be seen at the side vestibule as well as in the row of sheds. This touch seems to have been the favorite of some late colonial builder whose individuality has been carried through to so many of Andover's old homes.

The lovely old house with its interesting monitor roof treatment was for many years owned by heirs of Dr. Nathaniel Swift. In later years the house became sadly neglected and, around 1952, it was purchased by Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Hill, the present occupants, who have restored the Swift house so that it may again proudly claim its place among the lovely old showplaces in the town.

ANDOVER CELEBRATED MEMORIAL DAY

of march up to the Memorial Tower after the auditorium ceremonies. It rained most of the way, one of the few times in memory that rain has fallen during a Memorial Day parade.

The services at the auditorium opened with prayer by the Rev. Levering Reynolds Jr., and saw three veterans organization commanders lay wreaths on the plaque. They were Legion Commander Douglas Hutcherson, Legion Auxiliary President Mrs.

Harold Peters and All-Woman's Post Commander Mrs. Eileen Parent. State Representative Thomas Slack spoke, urging all citizens to pull together so that we may be strong.

Snappy Parade

The traditional Memorial Day parade, despite the foul weather, was its usual bright and snappy self — with four bands providing music for hundreds of marchers.

Firefighters and police led the parade, with Chiefs David Nicoll and Lester Hilton marching with their men. Selectmen Sidney P. White, Stafford Lindsay and William V. Emmons went part of the way on foot and rode over the remainder of the route. Gold Star mothers also rode, as did Ira Buxton, the last surviving Andover member of the Sons of Veterans.

The Lawrence Concert band provided sprightly marching music for the first division, which included some 200 Naval Reserve members, scouts and 4-H club members.

Clan MacPherson bagpipe band, kilts and all, provided swirling music for division two, which included a Phillips academy unit, VFW Post 2128 and scouts.

Division three marched to the music of the Sacred Heart school band. Marching in the division were the All-Woman's Post, American Legion, Post 8, American Legion and girl scouts.

The final division marched to the quick tempo of the Punchard All-Girl band. Chapter 18, D.A.V. marched in this division.

Color Guards

The color guard for V.F.W. post 2128 included Vice Commander Edward Thompson, John McDonald, Hector Keith, Paul Apitz and John Auchterlonie. Its firing squad included Sgt.-At-Arms and past commander Thomas Eldred, James McKee, Joseph Levi, George Levi, Charles Sanborn, Charles Waldie, Harvey Schultz, James McGrath and George Milne.

The Legion color guard included Joseph Remmes, Arthur Steiner, Joseph Medolo and Richard Wrigley. Members of the firing squad were Kenneth Dole, Walter Markey, Robert Volker, Robert Thompson, Garrison Holt and Harold Fraize.

Color guard for the D.A.V. included Nicholas Giata, Frank Emmett, Donald Wheelock, Philip Crowley, J. William Burke and Capt. Arthur Williams in command. Its firing squad included Lt. Paul Lanni in charge, Vincent Davey, Jerry Davey, Joseph Davey, Michael Davey, Brendan Davey, Frederick Davideit, John Colombo and Thomas Leonard. Miss Janet Hulse, 331st General Hospital USAR marched with the color guard, as did mascots J. W. Burke Jr. and Jay Lonergan.

BPW NOW HAS 3 PARKING PLACES

The board of public works has a new parking space near town hall.

Police Chief David Nicoll gave up one space near the police station and it is now marked "reserved for the board of public works".

That action by the selectmen is the answer to a continuing debate, as BPW Secretary Alex Henderson has more than once asked for such a space. He has complained that it is impossible for board members to park near the town hall when they have official business inside. The board now has three spaces along Barnard st. — one for the superintendent, one for the engineer and one for board members.

Outstanding Firm

The school committee, with the advice of its consultants, seems to have selected an outstanding architectural firm to draw preliminary plans for the South school.

The Hugh Stubbins associates have an outstanding record in school design. The firm has won prizes for its work in the school field — most notably the Parker medal for outstanding work in architecture on the Weston Country Day school.

The firm was selected, after the war, by the American Institute of Architects as the architect for the Congress Hall in Berlin. It seems to us that selection by the American Institute for such a project certainly establishes the confidence of the professionals in this firm.

We are pleased to have the firm working here. They are equipped to do a good job.

Giles Deserves Credit

At this writing, the town manager bill has not yet been admitted to the current legislative session.

But we are certain that it will be, for Rep. Frank S. Giles Jr. last week said he had personal assurances to that affect from Speaker Michael Skerry.

Mr. Giles should be congratulated for his efforts in getting the bill admitted. We repeat our earlier stand — the bill should be passed by the Legislature so that voters can act on it at the November election.

We hope the committee on towns, which must hold a hearing on the bill, will call such a public meeting quickly after the bill is admitted. Only reasonable haste will assure getting the bill on the ballot in November.

"Poverty was not created but inherited by modern capitalism, which has substantially reduced poverty in the less than two hundred years of its existence — has lessened the spread between rich and poor, and has made yesterday's luxuries today's necessities." — Noel Sargent.

GREAT BOOKS GROUP CLOSES SEASON

There will be a summer recess for the Great Books Discussion group of the Memorial Hall library until early in October. Notices will be sent to members about the opening meeting in the fall. Any person who wishes to enter the group and would like to be notified of its opening date should leave name and address at the main desk.

Since January the readings, all under the fifth year program, have been works by such writers as Euripedes, Plato, Aristotle, Virgil, St. Francis, St. Thomas Aquinas and Dante. In the fall, the books to be read are by Berkeley, Newton, Boswell, Kant, Tocqueville, Woolman, Melville and Einstein.

New members are welcome at any time. It is not necessary to have read the previous years' assignments in order to take part in the present discussions.

Miss Edith Flather, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Flather Jr., 45 Abbot st., has recently been elected to full membership in the Society of the Sigma Xi, a national honorary scientific society dedicated to the encouragement and promotion of research in science.

Miss Flather is a graduate of Abbot academy and Mount Holyoke college. She is now a research assistant in astrophysics at the California Institute of Technology.

Residents in Andover in need of transportation may contact Mrs. Bryon Cleveland by June 2.

Planning Board Asks For Plan Approval Ruling

The State Federation of Planning Boards will be consulted about a knotty problem that has come before the planning board several times in past months.

Secretary Mrs. Virginia Hammond has been asked to consult the Federation about the premise that planning boards should approve or disapprove sub-divisions based only on lot layouts and with restrictions based on full-fillment of drainage and sewerage and road construction requirements.

One local attorney has several times argued that the board should approve a sub-division when it is satisfied that the lot layout is correct — and impose whatever restrictions it feels necessary regarding utilities and roads.

On the other hand, board members have said in the past that they are required to approve the sub-division based on complete plans for all utilities and roads. They have pointed to a planning board regulation which established responsibility for control over services and have suggested that approval of lot layouts only would leave problems of services up to other town boards.

Arguments for the restricted planning board authority over layouts only include the suggestion that developers get caught in zoning changes while other problems are being taken care of and are then required to spend a great deal of money changing lot sizes in addition to other engineering services.

Mrs. Farrington Elected To Lead Andona Society

The final dinner meeting of the season for the Andona Society was held May 21 at the Andover Country club.

Yearly reports were read by all chairmen concerning club activities for the past year. A short business meeting was held and the new provisional members were introduced, they are: Mrs. David Bryant, Mrs. Joseph Daly, Mrs. Fred H. Dodkin, Mrs. Kenneth Fulton, Mrs. John McCoy, Mrs. Milton J. Meyers and Mrs. Howard S. Wahlberg.

Mrs. Phillips B. Marsden was presented with a past presidents pin. Officers elected for the next two year period are: President, Mrs. J. Reynolds Farrington; Vice-president, Mrs. J. Dana Hill; Secretary, Miss Antoinette Thiras; Treasurer, Mrs. John C. Young.

Following the meeting a short record pantomime act was put on by some of the members.

Down the Years with The Townsman

50 Years Ago — May 1906

The worst and most peculiar storm to have struck Andover in years hit at 3 last Saturday afternoon. As great winds and thunder and lightning roared into town, the rain came down so hard that it quickly was running even with the curbing. Hail fell with sufficient velocity to damage windows and break a lot of glass in several green houses. Many homeowners reported hail the size of eggs and several said they raked hail off their lawns and used it to freeze ice cream. The water overflowed from culverts deep enough on Locke st. to allow two youngsters to paddle a canoe up and down the street.

Many interested citizens attended a meeting in town hall Wednesday night to make plans for a gala July 4 celebration. Andrew McTernan was elected chairman of the large group.

The photographic studio of Leonard Sherman was badly damaged by fire yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock. Firemen said a kettle of paraffin overturned, starting the blaze.

A bronze tablet has recently been erected in memory of Samuel Harvey Taylor in the main hall of the Phillips academy building by the James S. Eaton Memorial fund.

The Andover Mother's club held its annual meeting Friday afternoon. Mrs. Davis S. Lindsay was elected president for the new season.

The Bradlee Mothers' club held its annual Gentlemen's night in the kindergarten room last Wednesday evening.

The Self-Improvement society in West Parish met Tuesday at the home of E. W. Boutwell. The Rev. J. Edgar Park gave an interesting talk.

Hudson Wilcox is having a large barn built on his property in West Parish.

25 Years Ago — May 1931

The annual St. Augustine's May procession was held Sunday afternoon, with the line confined to the church and grounds as it was last year.

A large audience enjoyed the four one-act plays presented in town hall Wednesday evening by members of the Punchard Senior class. Pantomime, mystery and comedy offered a rich variety.

The American Legion Auxiliary to Andover Post 8 will hold a public whist party this evening in Legion hall.

A colorful pageant was presented on the lawn of Central school Thursday afternoon to show what is going on in Andover schools to safeguard the health of the youngsters. The pageant was given as part of Public School Health week, which was observed in all the schools.

A children's festival will be held in the Free church Saturday afternoon from 3-6. It is being presented under the auspices of the Young People's division of the Missionary district and will include children of junior age.

A garden fete, for the benefit of Lawrence General hospital, was given Wednesday afternoon on the beautiful and spacious grounds at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Johnson on Central st.

The Pomp's Pond committee met and organized Wednesday night in lower town hall. Herbert M. Wright is chairman and Frank S. McDonald is secretary.

The officers and teachers of the church school of South church were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Bassett at a hot dog roast held at their home on Hidden rd. last Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Alexander Crockett was elected president of the Mother's club at a regular meeting Wednesday afternoon.

10 Years Ago — May 1946

Plans have been completed for the Tercentenary celebration, starting Thursday and continuing through Sunday. The committee met Tuesday night in town hall and found that few loose ends remain to be settled before the celebration. The parade committee reported that all residents over 80 have been invited to sit in the reviewing stand.

The Abbot academy Alumnae association will celebrate the 75th anniversary of its founding at a luncheon in the John Esther Art gallery next Saturday.

The Service club will hold its annual meeting at the Country club next Wednesday night. Foster C. Barnard is listed as the official nominee for president, according to the Nominating committee's report submitted at the last meeting.

Andover Grange 183 met in Grange hall Tuesday evening. A covered dish supper was served and a memorial service was held during the lecturer's hour.

Members of the Legion and VFW conducted memorial services Sunday afternoon at the Spring Grove cemetery. They marched to the cemetery, where services were held at the Legion lot by that organization and at the Soldiers lot by the VFW.

Floral Arrangement Won Third Prize

Mrs. Charles H. Hollis, a member of the Andover Garden club, recently presented two lovely flower arrangements which received much admiration and an award.

On May 11 at the R. H. Stearns Annual Spring show, held at Chestnut Hill and sponsored by the Massachusetts Federation of Garden Clubs, Mrs. Hollis received a third prize for her striking arrangement. Entries in this competition were to represent a sunset in shades of pink to red.

On May 17 Mrs. Hollis exhibited a beautiful French Empire arrangement at the Womens' City club in Boston. Her exhibit, a pedestal arrangement for a big hall, was a harmony of phlox, tulips and roses in pink, red and white dramatically displayed against a red damask. The many lovely arrangements which represented all the garden clubs of Greater Boston, were not entered in competition at this showing.

Two Appointed Deans Of Girls; Guidance Department Reorganized

The appointment of Miss Isabelle Phelan as dean of girls at Pynchard and Miss Katherine Sweeney as dean of girls in the junior high school was voted at the school committee meeting May 17.

Bernard M. Kellmurray, director of guidance for the school system, said the appointments complete the reorganization of the guidance department personnel for the new school year.

Mrs. G. Arthur Danforth, who has served as counselor for girls in Pynchard for the past six years, recently submitted her resignation from the school department, effective at the close of this school year. Miss Phelan will assume Mrs. Danforth's counseling duties in addition to some of an administrative nature, usually associated with the position of dean of girls, a post which has been vacant since the retirement of Mrs. Emma G. Carter in 1948. Filling this position, together with the designation of guidance counselors in both schools, is in accordance with a policy approved in principle by the committee last December and recommended jointly by Lindsay J. March, headmaster, and Mr. Kellmurray.

Miss Phelan has had extensive experience in work of this type, having served as dean and assistant principal at Merrimack High school for 13 years, prior to joining the Pynchard faculty as an English teacher last fall. She is a graduate of Jackson college of Tufts university and has done graduate work, including guidance courses, at the University of New Hampshire and Boston university.

Miss Sweeney will be continuing the counseling work for girls which she has been doing in the Andover Junior High school for 10 years and will also assume the general duties of dean of girls—the first to hold that title in the Junior High school. Her work as a counselor is well known to many former students and their parents in that school. She has done extensive graduate work in guidance, securing her Master's degree in that field at Tufts in 1948.

A further change in guidance personnel for next year has been required by the withdrawal from the department of Robert J. Collier, who has given service in the counseling of junior high school boys since 1950. Mr. Collier is to devote his time beyond his science teaching to his duties as head coach of baseball and assistant coach of basketball. To replace him, the school committee has named William E. Hart as guidance counselor to work with the boys in the Junior High school. Mr. Hart is presently serving his first year in that school as a teacher of science and mathematics. He is a graduate of Merrimack college and a veteran of the United States Army, in which he was engaged in personnel and counseling work. He is, at present, continuing his graduate courses in guidance at Boston Teachers' college.

Continuing their present duties are William J. Igoe, guidance counselor for boys in Pynchard High school and Mr. Kellmurray, who is director of guidance for the entire school system.

Noonan, Quartermaster Corps, told the selectmen that the Guard recommends no town expenditures on the building until the budget is determined.

The town appropriated funds at the annual town meeting for the purpose of fixing the exterior of the building, with the understanding that the Guard would be interested in hiring the structure.

The letter from Col. Noonan said:

"In reference to the use of the Indian Ridge School by the Massachusetts National Guard, the Legislature has been asked to make funds available to pay the Town of Andover a rental of $1,200 per year for the building.

At the present time, the Military Division does not know what action will be taken on our budget for the 1957 Fiscal Year.

"After the appropriation is made for the 1957 fiscal year, representatives of the State Quartermaster will contact your board relative to some definite agreement regarding the use of the building by the National Guard.

"Until a definite agreement can be reached, it is recommended that no expenditure of town funds be made on the building."

BUDGET CHAIRMAN

The United Fund Board of Directors has announced that Winthrop Newcomb, assistant treasurer of the Andover Savings bank, has agreed to serve a second term as United Fund Budget Committee chairman for the forthcoming fiscal year.

ROMAN HOUSE MODEL ON DISPLAY IN LIBRARY

Anyone who feels that our sprawling modern houses are too unconventional to be readily acceptable should take a moment to study the replica of a Roman house which is on display in the main reading room of the Memorial Hall library.

The plaster replica of a house of a well-to-do Roman citizen is about 15 by 40 inches, beautifully constructed and decorated by two students of Andover Junior High school, Anne Berthold and Judith Gilcreast, both of ninth grade.

The entire project, done in free time, took about 60 hours the girls figure. Tiny trees, vines, beautiful wall decorations, miniature furnishings have been made as true to life as possible. Miss Ida M. Grover is the teacher under whose influence the young people have made such progress; she loaned books and answered questions as the work progressed.

The typical Roman house was really two houses, with the front half, towards the street, the section in which the man of the house received his "clients"; the second half of the building was for the home and family. The girls have copied the sloping roof style, which poured rain down into the large basin set in the floor. The patio, or inner portion, was the center from which the smaller rooms for the family radiated, and the girls have used bright color, tiny figures in action scenes as decoration and colored sponge to carry out their ideas.

To study the tiny house is to realize that the world of the Romans was one of beauty and interest. A person wishing to discover a new hobby might well go on from there and read one or more of the books on Roman life and thought which are on display with the model.

Day school in Weston". Two other awards, from Progressive Architecture and the Boston Art Festival, were also based on the Weston structure.

Stubbins himself is a former Harvard professor in the graduate school of design. He served there from 1940 to 1953 and, in that year, became the chairman of the department of architecture at Harvard.

He graduated from the Georgia Institute of Technology and received his master's degree in architecture from Harvard.

The Stubbins firm was selected by the American Institute of Architects to design Congress Hall in Berlin after World War II. It has also been given awards for its design of the Animal Rescue League building in Boston and for an elementary school in Lowell.

Built Many Schools

The firm has built many schools. Some of those undertaken in 1955 were two elementary schools in Concord, elementary school in Lowell, high school in Dracut and an elementary school in Maynard. It has also built schools in Weston, Topsfield and Needham.

Mr. Burton, who came to the school committee meeting Monday night when it was decided that further questions were necessary, told the board his firm could and would cooperate to design a school that will meet financial as well as educational requirements.

Will Wait For School Session

There are no plans for a special town meeting until the school committee is ready to call such a meeting to consider the new South school.

Selectman Stafford A. Lindsay said last week that the board of selectmen discussed the matter and decided that the board would not now call a meeting. It has been indicated that the school committee may not be ready to present plans for about two months - the average time stipulated by several architects for preparation of the preliminary drawings and cost estimates.

Mr. Lindsay said other articles filed with the board have all been for inclusion in a special meeting called to consider the school.

The firefighters and policemen have asked for a $10 wage boost through a special article and at least two articles on zoning are planned. Herbert Rines is asking to have an area in Shawsheen rezoned to Zone A - 15,000 square foot lots - and the planning board will seek to have an area in West Andover rezoned to larger lot sizes. The request, it is understood, will be the same as article 61 in the annual town meeting warrant, which was defeated by a narrow margin.

It is possible, according to recent discussions among town officials, that special articles will also be inserted to accept statutes relating to governing the weight of vehicles using town streets; Rogers brook drainage and Shawsheen Heights drainage.

Contract Awarded For Town Dump

Antonio Bellia has been awarded the contract to keep the town dump cleaned up.

Secretary Stafford Lindsay of the board of selectmen said Bellia bid $2600 for the job, which requires personal supervision four hours a day and pushing debris back with a bulldozer four times weekly.

The New Hampshire Tree service bid $6000 and Joseph Misenti Jr. bid $5800, Lindsay said.

The man who goes around with a chip on his shoulder is apt to get the block knocked off.

Two Sub-Divisions Vetoed By Board

Two sub-divisions have been disapproved by the planning board.

Fred Cheever's Holt rd. development and Carl Stevens' sub-division on High Plain rd. were turned down after the board of health said drainage plans were unsatisfactory.

The board of health letter to the planning board said:

"It is the opinion of the state engineer and one with which we concur that both of these areas as proposed in the plans submitted are unsatisfactory from a drainage standpoint. Both our office and that of the state engineer would like to have Mr. Stevens and Mr. Cheever submit plans prepared by private engineers whom they would have to employ to show how the water level would be lowered and the drainage problem circumvented. Under the present plans and existing conditions, these plans do not have our approval nor that of the state engineer and no permits for them will be issued by this board".

At the meeting when the plans were turned down, the board also received preliminary plans for two new sub-divisions. They were from Joseph Campopiano off Morton st., near Phillips academy and from Merrill Realty of Reading for an area off High Plain rd. abutting a development proposed by Mr. Stevens.

TREANOR ESTATE GOES TO FOUR CHILDREN

The four children of Mrs. Jane M. Treanor will inherit her estate, according to terms of her will filed in Salem Registry of Probate. The estimated value of the estate was $24,000.

Vincent Treanor of Andover was nominated executor.

Haggett's Pond Land-Taking Is Before State

The town, through its engineer, is seeking a formal public hearing on plans for land-taking in the Haggett's pond area.

Meeting Monday night, the board instructed Ralph Preble to request the state department of public health to call the hearing. It was explained that surveys are almost finished which will show the low surrounding area. It would be flooded if the water level in the pond is raised by a foot through a system of dyking. Permission of the state department is required for land-taking for that purpose.

action on the long-standing issue. He said he has contacted 500 men and women about supporting the repair project, without finding any opposition. Chairman Allen Flye commented "That's what you'll need, 500 people." He referred to the special town meeting called last summer to consider the problem when it was impossible to get a quorum.

Will Urge Meeting

Surette said he will urge the selectmen to call a meeting before the end of June to consider the brook proposition. Last week the BPW said it was not interested in calling a meeting but would insert an article in any special meeting that is called. Members at that time recalled their efforts to hold a meeting last year and said they didn't want to get involved in a similar episode again.

Chairman Flye reminded the board that the state may pay half the cost of brook reconstruction but no promises can be made to townspeople on that score. He said the existence of thorough engineering studies and plans may make the state react more favorably to the project.

Alternate Article

BPW members debated the cost of an alternate article — one that would have the brook cleaned out. It was finally decided to have Engineer Ralph Preble estimate the cost for such a project in case the major reconstruction job is not voted. Members generally felt that a sum of money should be set aside each year for cleaning the brook, no matter what the vote is at a special town meeting. They pointed out that there is no money available now for any cleaning to allow the water to run more freely.

Miss Baum Plans Government Career

Jo Ann Baum, 17 Brechin ter., has received a fellowship to study foreign affairs at the University of Virginia graduate school. She is a senior at Merrimack college.

Miss Baum plans to prepare for a career in the state department. She majored in history at Merrimack and won a P. J. McDonald government internship which allowed her to spend a week in Washington, studying the government in action.

She was a dean's list student during her four years at Merrimack. While there she took part in several activities, including secretary of the Philosophy club, secretary of the debating society, student council, the Warrior — school newspaper; and the Merrimackian, school yearbook.

BPW, Selectmen Meet Monday To Consider Streets

The board of selectmen will meet with the board of public works next Monday night at 8:30 to discuss unaccepted streets.

The selectmen spent part of last Monday viewing the remaining unaccepted ways. Monday's meeting with the BPW will concern restrictions or requirements for acceptance based on the board's findings.

One street has already been accepted, however. It is Spring Grove rd., where Fred Cheever has asked the BPW to consider a water extension. The selectmen accepted it from Porter rd. to Sunset Rock rd., with the comment that abutters should be required to pay a portion of the cost for drainage, water and road improvement. Mr. Cheever told the selectmen Monday morning that he would pay a portion of the cost of water installation and would give some land to help straighten out the road.

Earlier this year the selectmen said they had agreed to accept Burnham rd. and Gleason st. so that projects could begin on them. There originally were some 30 streets on the list to be laid out by the selectmen.

People who fish for compliments do not need long lines.

GOP Here Selects Officers, Delegates

Alexander D. Gibson, 49 Highland rd., has been elected chairman of the Republican Town committee.

Meeting May 24 at the library, the GOP committee named six delegates to the state convention June 16. They are Gibson, Herbert L. Ortstein, 9 Binney st.; Donald G. Thompson of Bancroft rd.; Vincent Treanor Jr. of Osgood st.; Irving J. Whitcomb, 36 Central st.; Arthur Williams, 127 Haverhill st.

The committee also elected the following officers: Samuel S. Rogers, 49 Salem st., vice chairman; Antoinette Thiras, 4 Upland rd., secretary; Arthur Williams, 127 Haverhill st., treasurer and Thomas V. Sullivan, 49 Balmoral st., assistant treasurer.

Mr. Gibson told the meeting
